“Alvars: A globally significant habitat... right next door.” With David Hawke, February 28 @ 7:00pm - Zoom Meeting

Date and Time: Tuesday, February 28 7:00 pm - 8:30 pm

“Alvars: A globally significant habitat... right next door.” With David Hawke, February 28 @ 7:00pm - Zoom Meeting

Most naturalists are familiar with a wide variety of habitat types, such as a hardwood forest, cedar swamp, or grassland... but an alvar??

This presentation takes a close look at the ecology of limestone plains (alvars) found scattered around central Ontario. It is a harsh environment, subject to flooding and drought each year; therefore the plants and wildlife that live here are a hardy and often unique group.

David Hawke has been visiting this habitat since the 1970s. His stories and photographs will reveal the lure and excitement of exploring alvars.

To participate in this zoom meeting you must be a member of North Durham Nature. Go to www.northdurhamnature.com for membership details.
